EATEN BY SAVAGE CANNIBALS.

THE AWFUL FATE OF ELEVEN SHIP-WRECKED SAILORS.

Only One Escaped to Tell the Tale of Horror—His Hair-Whitening Experience.

STORY OF A RECENT OCCURRENCE.

(From the New York World.)

YANCOOVER, B. C., Feb. 11, 1899.—The era of cruelty and cannibalism in the far south seas has not passed.

From time to time Australian steamships bring to this port thrilling tales about the adventures of traders who risk their lives among the barbarians of the South Pacific.

It remained for the steamship R. M. S. Aorangi, which arrived here the other day, to give The World the most startling story that has for years come from the South Seas.

Press dispatches told it briefly at the time. A small ketch belonging to the Guinness Development Syndicate had been wrecked off the shores of New Guinea, and the shipwrecked mariners escaped drowning only to be devoured by cannibals. Out of a boatload of twelve castaways only one escaped from the island to tell of the terrible fate of his companions.

The vessel was the 800-ton bark Mambare, Capt. Jackson and the only survivor of the ill-fated crew, was an alderman named Jim Green. He is now in Sydney, N. S. W.

I have been able not only to confirm the story of the awful occurrence, but to get it almost in Green's own words from Arthur Sinclair, who came over on the Aorangi. Mr. Sinclair is now in this city. He saw Green just before he left Sydney.

"Green," said Mr. Sinclair to me today, "is above the average intelligence of his class. He told me the story of the remarkable fate of his companions in a direct, straight forward way. As the result of his experience among the New Guinea cannibals his hair is almost white, although he is only thirty. He has been sailing the South Seas for five years. His record in Sydney is good, and I have no reason to doubt a single detail of his recital. Here it is, almost in his own words, for it is vividly impressed on my mind."

JIM GREEN'S STORY.
"As far as I know I am the only one left of the crew of twenty men that left Sydney about two months ago in the bark Mambare, to trade with the natives of New Guinea. Eleven of my mates were eaten by cannibals, and the rest are, I believe, at the bottom of the South Pacific."

"Most of us were raised in Australia and had sailed among the islands for years. We had a good voyage out. We traded with the natives at Nares Harbor, Admiralty Islands, and at Humboldt Bay, New Guinea, securing a splendid cargo of coconuts, bananas, sweet potatoes, taro, and about two dozen pigs. The natives were very friendly at both places. We heard that off Samar, New Guinea, a treacherous tribe of natives had encamped on the shore, and Capt. Jackson gave the place a wide berth."

"The first week in December we started on the return voyage to Sydney. We had been out two days when a terrible cyclone struck us. The Mambare, heavily loaded as she was, was tossed terribly. Two days and two nights the gale continued and then we lost not only our bearings but our rudder. This was about December 6."

"The captain ordered the boats provisioned and we all remained on deck prepared for the worst. The worst came soon enough. The vessel began to take in water and we were ordered to the boats."

MEETING THE CANNIBALS.

Public Statement From A Public Man

Hon. W. H. OHLEY, Ex-Secretary of State of West Virginia, writes an open letter.

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Mar. 9, 1898.

To whom it may concern:

"I most heartily recommend Peruna as one of the best remedies in existence for catarrhal diseases; but there are countless multitudes of people who are still struggling with catarrh and need help. To such as these the unequalled recommendation of Peruna by Ex-Secretary Ohley is directed. Peruna is a scientific and purely vegetable. All druggists sell it."

Hon. W. H. OHLEY.

Peruna has cured thousands of obstinate cases of catarrh, and is perhaps the only efficient remedy in existence for catarrhal diseases; but there are countless multitudes of people who are still struggling with catarrh and need help. To such as these the unequalled recommendation of Peruna by Ex-Secretary Ohley is directed. Peruna is a scientific and purely vegetable. All druggists sell it."

FATAL EFFECTS OF MENINGITIS.

HAS KILLED TWENTY-FIVE IN HENDERSON COUNTY.

No Official Action as Yet and Health Officers do not Fear an Epidemic.

QUININE A VERY POTENT REMEDY.

HENDERSON KY., Feb. 16.—There are several cases of cerebro-spinal meningitis, or spotted fever, in this city and county. This is admitted by both Dr. W. A. Quinn, of the City Board of Health, and Dr. James H. Letcher, member of the State Board of Health. The first fully developed case of the disease was that of Adam Hunter, brought here from Seebree, Webster county. He was thought to be insane. He was taken to the sanitarium and there died, his case being diagnosed as spinal meningitis. This was about the 1st of February. Since that time a record, as kept by the Courier-Journal correspondent shows that there have been about fifteen deaths in the city and ten reported from the county. Every case that has been so far reported has proved fatal. Of a total of twenty-five cases, five were reported from the city and twenty from the county. Dr. Quinn stated that he did not think the meningitis would assume an epidemic form, as the development of cases seemed to be on the wane. He also stated that every year about the month of February a few cases could be found in this section, but he had not seen as many in fifteen years as were chronicled this year.

So far Drs. James H. Letcher and Arch Dixon, members of the State Board of Health from this part of Kentucky, have taken no official notice of the disease, though their personal attention has been directed to it. Dr. Letcher to-night said: "Yes, there is a spotted fever in this section. I have attended cases in all parts of the county and nearly all of them have proved fatal. From what I understand, your list of deaths is correct, but I do not fear an epidemic. Still I am keeping my eyes open and if there is an increase in the number of cases in the next few days steps will be taken in reference to the prevention of the spread of the disease. I think the breaking up of the cold spell will have a tendency toward checking the disease."

Reports are to the effect that the disease is in Vanderburg county, Indiana. Several deaths have lately been reported across the river. A reliable man said to-night that six deaths from the disease had occurred within the past few days in one place in Evansville. Farmers from the Indiana side state that several deaths have resulted from the disease.

A reliable man said to-night that six deaths from the disease had occurred within the past few days in one place in Evansville. Farmers from the Indiana side state that several deaths have resulted from the disease.

Most of the deaths from the disease in this county have been among people less than twenty-one years of age and that, too, among males rather than females. Outside of the city the greatest number of cases has been reported from the Niagara and Roberts precincts.

There are several deaths reported from Webster county, where the disease twelve years ago raged as an epidemic and over one hundred deaths occurred within a radius of five miles. Still it is not an epidemic and there is no expectation of one, either in this county or this section of the State.

Several fatal cases were reported to-day from the Niagara and Roberts neighborhoods in this county. Within the last few days Mr. Frank Bush, David Wilson and Elijah Williamson, of Niagara, have died with the disease. Every case that has been reported in this county has resulted fatally.

QUININE FOR MENINGITIS.
Dr. D. L. Field, of Jeffersonville, Ind., talked in an interesting manner recently concerning the meningitis epidemic which has proved fatal in some Kentucky towns.

"Quinine," said Dr. Field, "is the only preventive for meningitis—acute and tubercular. Malaria causes meningitis. Dr. D. W. Yandell's remedy was the one I cite. Twenty-four grains should be given every twenty-four hours. The disease makes its appearance with a chill. I regard it as one of the most fatal maladies known to medical science. I recall that a child of Mrs. Dan Howard, of Jeffersonville, was seized with the disease and died in twenty-four hours."

Dangers of the Grip.
The greatest danger from La Grippe is of its result in pneumonia. If reasonable care is used, however, and Chamberlain's Cough Remedy taken, all danger will be avoided. Among the tens of thousands who have used this remedy for the grippe we have yet to learn of a single case having resulted in pneumonia, which shows conclusively that this remedy is a certain preventive of that dangerous disease. It will cure the grippe in less time than any other treatment. It is pleasant and safe to take. For sale by E. Wayne Griffin & Bro., Druggists, Hartford, Ky.

Ratify First.
In all dealings with the Philippine insurgents the nation will be handicapped so long as our diplomatic relation with Spain remain as they are. These should be finally determined, and then the Philippine question can be dealt with on its own merits, and regardless of all other considerations. To amend the treaty and thus compel additional negotiations with Spain means fresh tanglements.

This treaty does not bind the nation to an annexation policy. It takes these islands from Spain, but there is nothing in the treaty to compel us to keep them a single day. Let peace be officially proclaimed and then fight out the annexation problem.

Scrofula is the most obstinate of blood troubles, and is often the result of an inherited taint in the blood. S. S. S. is the only remedy which goes deep enough to reach Scrofula; it forces out every trace of the disease, and cures the worst cases.

My son, Charlie, was afflicted from infancy with Scrofula, and he suffered so that it was impossible to dress him for three years. His head and body were a mass of sores, and his eyesight also became affected. Dr. Swift's Specific was applied to his condition, and he was cured. He is now a healthy boy, and his skin is perfectly clear and smooth, and he has been cured of his blood trouble. S. S. MONTHLY SUFFERING.

Thousands of women are troubled at monthly intervals with pain in the head, back, breasts, shoulders, sides, hips and limbs. But they need not suffer.

These pains are symptoms of dangerous derangements that can be corrected. The menstrual function should operate painlessly.

McLure's Wine of Cardui

makes menstruation painless, and regular. It puts the delicate menstrual organs in condition to do their work properly. And that stops all this pain. Why will any woman suffer month after month when Wine of Cardui will relieve her? It costs $1.00 at the drug store. Why don't you get a bottle to-day?
